Aisha has more than 16 years of experience in the area of insurance law with a focus on both insurance defence litigation and providing coverage advice to diverse domestic and international insurers.

Aisha's practice has a focus on Professional liability and Directors and Officers liability. Additionally, Aisha has acted as a coverage and monitoring counsel for complex cases throughout North America.

While in the U.S., Aisha focused on complex commercial litigation and is admitted in State/Provincial and federal courts in Canada and the U.S. Aisha has defended various professionals including, but not limited to, insurance brokers, lawyers, architects, and engineers.

Most recently, she worked as the VP Claims at a Lloyds syndicate which has provided her with the unique perspective of understanding insurer clients needs from setting adequate reserves to finding pragmatic solutions for coverage related issues.

In her spare time, she has started a clothing drive with her family called Warm Toes N Buns which collects new socks and underwear for the homeless year round. She is also an avid cruiser and is always available to provide cruising advice.
