Olivia's civil litigation practice focuses on insurance defence, including accident benefits and tort claims. She has appeared before the Superior Court of Justice, the Small Claims Court, and the Licence Appeal Tribunal.

Olivia joined McCague Borlack LLP after working at an insurance defence firm in Toronto. Her experience has motivated her to continue to practice in this area. Olivia is eager to act on behalf of her clients in the insurance world while strengthening her knowledge in other areas of law with the team at MB.

Olivia is a passionate and competitive advocate who excels in strong communication, placing clients' needs at the forefront of every legal issue.

She was a student in the inaugural year of the BA/LLB program at Wilfrid Laurier University. While in law school, Olivia was nominated for the role of Vice President of the Canadian Student Law Society and acted as a peer mentor for incoming Laurier students at Sussex. She remains a highly engaged alumni of Wilfrid Laurier University and speaks at various events for students in the program.

Outside of the office, Olivia enjoys practicing yoga, spending time with friends and family, attending concerts and exploring new restaurants in the city.
